SHEEP SCABIES FOUND IN JOHN DAY VALLEY

JOHN DAY, Ore., May 29.—Sheep scabies has broken out on the ranges in the lower John Day valley, Wheeler county, according to Dr. W. R. Henneburger of the United States bureau of animal industry, who recently made an inspection of the sheep in that vicinity. So far as Dr. Henneburger could determine by a preliminary inspection, the disease is confined to one band, although several other bands are under suspicion.

The infected sheep belong to Mrs. Donald MacDonald. They have been grazing on the breaks of the lower John Day river all spring, and it is feared that they may have spread the infection to several other bands grazing on the same range.

Dr. Henneburger has restricted the area upon which the infected sheep will be allowed to graze and has ordered that the sheep be dipped twice under the supervision of state or federal inspectors before they be allowed to leave the quarantined area. As a matter of precaution he has recommended that several other bands of sheep in the vicinity be dipped.

Carranza Soldiers Uneasy.

COLUMBUS, May 29.—Soldiers arriving from the front report a growing hostility of Carranza soldiers toward the Americans. Barbed wire obstacles have been placed in the roadway at Casas Grandes and motor-trucks were stoned when they attempted to remove the barricades. Several soldiers were struck. Carranza soldiers were noticed in the mob. The commander of the Americans prevented the troops from using their guns.

GERMAN PROPAGANDA BLAMED FOR RUMOR

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Denying without qualification all reports that Secretary Lansing is to resign, the state department declared that the rumor was part of a propaganda which has been progressing for months. It was intimated that German sources were fostering the rumors.

Lansing attended the cabinet meeting, and will be at his office on Monday. He showed signs of his recent illness while talking about the resignation rumor.

"Persons circulating that story knew it was false," the state department asserted. "The story was sent by wireless to Berlin, as a part of a propaganda while international relations were delicate. It was never printed in Berlin. Those circulating the story took advantage of the secretary's illness to renew it."

Asked if the propaganda referred to was a German product, one official said: "You can draw your own conclusions."

Lansing was very angry when questioned about the report. "Of all the absurd fakes," he cried, "this is the worst."
